Movia

Brda/Collio, Slovenia

There are millions of things we know, but it is good that we do not know everything about wine. More risk, more passion. More good, more bad. You play with fire on the hay, zak zak zak, paf! But only sometimes!

- Aleš Kristancic

Lying along the prime strip of land that adjoins the Italian and the Slovenian sides of the Collio, the Movia estate has been family owned and operated by the Kristancic family in 1820. Growing up in the vineyards and winery on many a late evening and Saturday afternoon when he would have preferred to play soccer, the new moon rose and the now the iconic Aleš Kristancic dutifully helped his father transfer wines from barrel to barrel. Today he passionately implements the rigorous biodynamic principles handed down to him while simultaneously experimenting to produce wines of unprecedented purity and authenticity. His distinct vision stems from the wisdom of eight generations spent among the vines and in the cellar coupled with a natural intuition toward the relationship between nature, soil, vines, and wine.
